FR DAVID'S GOSPEL REFLECTION: Today's gospel concerns the high cost of discipleship and the need to count that cost. It consists of three "hard" sayings and two parables. The first hard saying places before the prospective disciple the choice between following Jesus and family ties. This was an even more difficult choice in Jesus's culture than it is for us today. The term "hate" in the saying, while an obvious exaggeration, underlines the overriding importance of God's Kingdom and following Jesus. The second hard saying asserts that following Jesus can and will involve suffering. Those who decide to follow Jesus must be prepared to take up the cross, here understood as an instrument of shame as well as physical torment. The hard sayings are interrupted by two parables about counting the cost of discipleship. The first parable concerns a man who contemplates building a tower. Unless he carefully plans out the project and calculates the cost, he will not be able to finish it and he will appear as a fool before his neighbours. Likewise, a king who wants to go to war must take account of the strength of his own army and what he can expect from his enemies. The point of these parables is that we must take account of the high cost that discipleship may have. The third hard saying concerns renouncing material possessions to follow Jesus. This too would have been very challenging in Jesus's time. In some circles having many possessions was interpreted as a blessing from God. Moreover, there was no welfare state to provide the poor with the basic necessities of human life. Again the extreme nature of the challenge highlights the overriding importance of God's Kingdom and following Jesus. We can deal with the cost of discipleship, only if we are convinced that God is with us, directing and helping us along the way.
